Opticians without NHS email accounts?

Do you have an NHS email address? 1468 opticians already have NHS email addresses. If you have an NHS email address, then please make sure that you are accessing this email address regularly to ensure that you receive the relevant communications and that the email address remains active. If you do not have an NHS email address, then please contact your local health board to have this set up for you. Regular communications are sent out to practitioners with NHS email addresses. Future e-services and administration may also go through ServiceNow which is always connected to an NHS email.
